

Unlocking resilience

Navigating Activism in Business Aviation

In a world where climate activists increasingly focus their attention on business aviation, staying informed and prepared is paramount. The ever-expanding dialogue surrounding climate change ensures that these challenges persist. Dyami presents a unique opportunity for the business aviation community to not only understand but also adapt and thrive amidst this evolving landscape.

Why attend our training?

Join Dyami for a half-day training session, where you'll not only understand the challenges but also learn how to navigate them effectively. Take a proactive step towards securing your business aviation endeavors. As climate activism targets business jets and private planes with increasing frequency, our training provides you and your staff with the tools to safeguard your operations. In an environment where the conversation on climate change is growing louder, proactivity and resilience are your keys to success.

Training Highlights

Theory session Activism Unveiled

Gain deep insights into the motivations and actions of climate activist groups like Extinction Rebellion and Letzte Generation. Delve into the world of climate activism organizations. Explore their objectives, methodologies, and the ever-changing dynamics of their operations. Understand their goals, strategies, and the impact they aim to create in the aviation industry. Equip yourself with the knowledge to anticipate and adapt to their actions effectively.

Practical Session Activist Resilience Training

Prepare your crews and staff to confidently engage with activists in a manner that prioritizes safety and professionalism. With our training actor and our experienced resilience trainer, we will go through scenarios where you will receive practical training on how to respond to activist encounters, ensuring the well-being of your team and the continuity of your operations, including managing your reputation.